From the Historic
Lexington Foundation, Inc.

July 4th was a banner day for the citizens of Lexington, as well as the first HLF Antiques Appraisal Day. By all accounts, the event was a tremendous success. Over 200 people brought items as large as a 19th century rocking chair and as small as an antique pin. Appraisors Gordon Lohr from Richmond, Robert K. Miller from Radford and Michaux Tayloe Chopski from Roanoke answered questions, appraised and advised the collectors who attended. All proceeds from Antiques Appraisal Day benefit the Historic Lexington Foundation and support its ongoing work to preserve Lexington's historic buildings and spaces (more on other side).
